GENERAL EDUCATIONAL DEVELOPMENT, G.E.D.

"Empowering the L.G.B.T. communities, To Empower themselves"

Maybe you are a high school dropout. You left high school because of being ostracized and misunderstood. Maybe you just didn't like school, or didn't think a high school diploma would mean anything - and now you know what it means not to have it. Now it's your chance to get trained to sit for the GED state exam. Passing the Tests of General Educational Development (GED Tests) and earning a high school equivalency diploma enables people who did not finish high school to qualify for more jobs and opportunities.

HOW USEFUL IS A GED DIPLOMA OR CREDENTIAL?

GED graduates can qualify to attend college, enter training programs, and get better jobs. The GED diploma, like a high school diploma, is no guarantee you will get a specific job or into a specific college. However, many colleges and employers demand at least a high school diploma or its equivalent. In the U.S., a recent survey showed that 92 percent of all colleges accept GED graduates and 96 percent of all employers accept the GED as the equivalent of a high school diploma.
